

Join industry expert Gordon Sacks, PharmD, BCNSP, FASHP, FPPAG, FASPEN, Professor of Pharmacy Practice at Auburn University Harrison School of Pharmacy, as he shares best practices in preventing and managing complications of HPN therapy” NHIA (2017).

NHIA report “The delivery of home parenteral nutrition (HPN) began in the 1980’s when a patient in need of life-long nutrition support successfully received care while experiencing a better quality of life than could be achieved at a medical facility. Today, virtually every home infusion clinician is likely to become involved in the management of parenteral nutrition patients. Attending this NHIA webinar will help you optimize the care of your chronic HPN adult patient (1 CE credit).
