“We report a series of three patients with potentially life-threatening thrombotic and thromboembolic phenomena arising from their indwelling central venous catheters (CVCs)” Kandamany et al (2014).

Reference:

Detection of thrombotic complications of central venous access http://ctt.ec/Cf2bS+ @ivteam #ivteam

Click To Tweet

Extract:

“Some of our patients are fitted with a totally implantable venous access device (TIVAD) referred to as a Port-A-Cath. Over time, these indwelling devices present their own complications. We report a series of three patients with potentially life-threatening thrombotic and thromboembolic phenomena arising from their indwelling central venous catheters (CVCs).”

Full Text

Thank you to our partners for supporting IVTEAM