“There are possibilities of coiling and kinking of the guide wire inside the vessel during insertion by Seldinger technique” Pal et al (2014).

Reference:

Click To Tweet

Extract:

“There are possibilities of coiling and kinking of the guide wire inside the vessel during insertion by Seldinger technique, in addition to the possibility of kinking outside the vessel. Since the complication can be serious, we recommend that force should not be used when even little resistance is encountered during threading of the guide wire and bedside chest X-ray facility should be available to check for guide wire position if malpositioning is suspected.”

Full Text

Thank you to our partners for supporting IVTEAM